Clinical Experience

- Lisa graduated in Occupational Therapy in 2011 and completed her Masters in 2015.
- She has worked in a variety of settings within the NHS, local authority, and private practice.
- These include community-based support and rehabilitation for adults with physical, cognitive and/or mental health conditions, aids and adaptations, seating, homecare and functional skills assessments.
- She has experience of working in educational and outreach settings for children and young adults with additional learning and physical needs.
- Her specialist interest is in neurological conditions and community-based rehabilitation.

Rehabilitation Expertise

Rehabilitation Management

- Lisa has a wealth of experience supporting clients with both physical and mental injuries. This allows her to effectively and efficiently co-ordinate the most appropriate statutory and private services.

- She is skilled at identifying barriers, setting goals and achieving outcomes for her clients.
- Her passion is supporting clients who have suffered brain injury or multi-trauma injuries and she has a wealth of expertise in assessing their functional needs, providing relevant support, advice and care together with implementing packages to maximise independence in the home and the community.

Vocational Rehabilitation

- Lisa is experienced at using the biopsychosocial assessment to promote independence and, where appropriate, return to work.
- She works with her vocational colleagues to deliver the required vocational assessments to aid her clients.
